DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 13, 16-19, and 22-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Clark et al. (4,962,586).

Clark et al. disclose a turbine shaft oriented in an axial direction (Figs. 1-6), comprising a first flow region 3 (Fig. 2); a second flow region 5 that adjoins the first flow region in an axial direction; a first material in the first flow region; and a second material in the second flow region, wherein the first material comprises a heat-resistant steel (col. 1, lines 39-42) and the second material comprises a steel which is tough at low temperatures;

wherein the second material comprises a 3.5 NiCrMoV steel (col. 3, lines 56-63);

wherein a structural weld seam (4) is arranged between the first material and the second material (Fig. 2; col. 4, lines 4-9);

wherein the structural weld seam includes a weld filler having 2% by weight of Ni (col. 5, lines 36-43).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3745

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 14 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Clark et al. in view of Komai et al. (5,814,274).

Clark et al. disclose all the limitations except the first material does not comprise a 2 CrMoNiWV steel as claimed.

Komai et al. teach a steel having high temperature strength and excellent weldability comprising (0.3 - 3%) CrMoNiWV (abstract).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to make the turbine shaft of Clark et al. with the first flow region comprises (0.3 - 3%) CrMoNiWV for the purpose of providing a turbine shaft with a first flow region comprising a steel having high temperature strength and excellent weldability as taught by Komai et al.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 15 and 21, due to specific weight percents of the alloys, are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Prior Art

The prior art made of record but not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure and consists of 2 patents.

Art Unit: 3745

Yamada et al. (6,499,946) and Takenouchi et al. are cited to show turbine shafts having flow regions made of different materials.
